

175 parks are going to be removed from the Alberta Parks system.

The Alberta government is planning to close 20 parks and remove 164 from the Alberta Parks system. A total of 175 parks will lose protection and Albertans could lose access.

We'll lose recreation opportunities

With fewer camping sites and recreation areas, these changes will make it more difficult for Albertans and visitors to safely and responsibly enjoy the parks.

A decision without public input

Albertans were not consulted about these changes, and there was no information on how parks were selected to be removed from the system.

No evidence of cost savings

Alberta's parks and campgrounds are busier than ever, and there is no evidence that removing parks will save the province any money.

These changes are not yet final

The Alberta government has not yet finalized the closures and removals of these parks, but a decision is expected at any time.

Any change will be difficult to reverse

If these parks are removed from the system, it will be almost impossible to reverse. Now's the time to defend Alberta's parks.
